

The Miami Herald

Winning partnership

The South Florida Hispanic Chamber of Commerce has 23 years of deep roots in Miami-Dade County. As a strong supporter of growth and development for our businesses, we advocate for partnerships that will benefit the community by creating jobs and fostering progress.

The possibility of having a public-private collaboration with Miami Dade County and FPL in building a facility that treats waste-water that would otherwise seep into Biscayne Bay is monumental. This collaboration will also provide job opportunities that are critical to our local economy. We constantly are receiving people from different parts of Latin America who need jobs.

This new technology will provide opportunities for small and large businesses, as well as encourage the younger generations to become an innovative force for the future.

Initiatives like these are a win-win for our community, and we are proud and excited to support it.

LILLIAM M. LOPEZ,

PRESIDENT, CEO,

SOUTH FLORIDA HISPANIC CHAMBER OF COMMERCE